JARVIS BOYLAND

Born in Memphis, TN

Lives and works in Chicago, IL

Jarvis Boyland navigates intersections of black identity through portraiture. Based on photographic images which the artist then reconfigures to create specific compositions, his paintings focus on queer men of color within intimate spaces, sensitively highlighting the nuances of these complex interpersonal relationships, identities, and locales. Boyland received his BFA from the University of Memphis in 2017. In 2018, he attended the Skowhegan School of Painting and Sculpture, Skowhegan, ME; and was the recipient of the 2018-2019 Artist-In-Residence for the Arts + Public Life and the Center for the Study of Race, Politics & Culture at the University of Chicago, Chicago, IL. Boyland's work resides in numerous public and private collections throughout the world including the Nerman Museum of Contemporary Art, Oakland Park, KS; Brooks Museum of Art, Memphis, TN; and the Andrew Xue Collection, Singapore. Recent exhibitions include Nerman Museum of Contemporary Art, Oakland Park, KS (2019); Kohn Gallery, Los Angeles, CA (2019); Monique Meloche Gallery, Chicago, IL (2018); Zevitas Marcus Gallery, Los Angeles, CA (2018); and Blanc Gallery, Chicago, IL (2018). Boyland has had a publication released for his solo exhibition, On Hold: (2019), and furthermore has been reviewed in numerous periodicals, including the Los Angeles Times.

I feel the need to explore the complexities of both blackness and queerness, and the ways in which their intersections have shaped my experience of loving and grieving—pain and pleasure. Themes in my work stem from highly charged and disjointed emotions as I come to terms with self-identity and unpack my interpersonal sentiments towards men. The process of rejecting my southern, conservative, and religious upbringing has shaped the evolution of my practice. Images of lifeless black bodies, consequences of injustice, violence and disease are traumatizing. I want, instead, to question what it means for the black body to be in repose—leisurely, even limp.

My work navigates intersections of black identity through portraiture. Caught between the rock of racism in queer communities and the hard place of homophobia and heterosexism in black communities, my paintings focus on queer men of color within intimate spaces. I am interested in the domestic space as the foundation of social ideologies. I think of the black home as an incubator that molds the facade of black masculinity.

Sensitively rendered, I emphasize the idealization of intimacy and favor the nuances of depicting men who show simultaneous moments of confidence, charisma, apprehension, and insecurity within these secluded spaces. Based on photographs—my paintings are embedded with complex sentiments, memories, essence, the figures and objects that inform my compositions become abstracted in the transcription of information. The correspondence between the two mediums, for me, expresses the awkwardness and discomfort felt in both fond and deeply intimate relationships.
